"We scored some major points in the deposition of Plaintiff's key representative. I gave opposing counsel a brief summary of your opinions. That combination caused them to drop their claim. Thanks again for your help."

Guy Michelson, Attorney (Corr Cronin Michelson Baumgardner & Preece. LLLP / Seattle, WA)

"It was a pleasure working with you. I particularly appreciated your enthusiasm for the project and your willingness to work on a tight deadline. I wouldn't hesitate to work with you again in the future."

Seann C. Colgan, Attorney (Corr Cronin Michelson Baumgardner & Preece LLP / Seattle, WA)

"The assignment I gave Jacqueline was a bit unusual: to examine and confirm the authenticity of a pair of paintings by Grafton Tyler Brown, executed in the 1880s. The paintings were unsigned on the front but retained inscriptions on the back. Jacqueline examined and analyzed the inscriptions in copious detail and provided an elaborate report of her findings.

While I had assembled through my own research a significant amount of circumstantial evidence of the paintings' authenticity, it was Jacqueline's analysis that gave substantial weight to the attribution. Jacqueline not only provided a clear and detailed written report on the project, but clearly and carefully described every step in her investigation. She never jumped to any conclusions, but rather allowed her research and analysis to guide her to a conclusion. I would wholeheartedly recommend Jacqueline to anyone in need of forensic document analysis."

Mark Humpal, Owner (Mark Humpal Fine Art / Portland, OR)

"As my testifying and rebuttal witness, Ms. Joseph far exceeded my expectations; she was probably the best expert witness I've worked with in 20 years in practice."

Bruce Pruitt-Hamm, Attorney (Carol Bailey and Associates, Seattle, WA)

"I hired Jacqueline Joseph as an expert witness in a very difficult law suit regarding the authenticity of a signature on a million dollar property deed. The difficulty was that my client had already lost the case on Summary Judgment. Fortunately, the court's ruling was reviewed and sent back to the trial court on appeal for various reasons, giving me the chance to change the trial judge's mind by, in part, proving the authenticity of the signature on the deed. Ms. Joseph's testimony made all the difference. The judge, in reversing his decision, wrote, "Jacqueline Joseph, A Forensic Document Examiner, testified that in her opinion the signature purporting to be Frank's signature on the deed is in fact Frank's signature. That testimony was well reasoned and credible." What was truly amazing about her "performance" is that it was done over the phone. And in a complete reversal of roles, she carefully prepared me on how to perform my direct examination of her and talked through all the cross-examination tactics we could expect from the opposing counsel. She was great."

Ronn Elzinga, Attorney (Portland, OR)

"Your testimony under direct examination, cross-examination, and re-direct examination was always on-point, consistent and un-wavering, fact based, and well-grounded in demonstrable research and cited reference materials. Our case could not have gone any better if I had choreographed every move and scripted every sentence for the entire hearing. We were very well prepared, thanks to your efforts." Union Staff Representative

"Ms. Joseph's testimony was a very important element of winning our case, but it wasn't just her skill. It was also her professionalism and integrity. She gave us the hard facts in the very beginning and helped us prepare to deal with those at trial. In a battle of the experts, Ms. Joseph was by far more reliable."

Ms. Murphy McGrew, Attorney (Law Office of Murphy McGrew / Portland, OR)

"Jacqueline Joseph is not only a skilled, forensic expert, but she also has a practical understanding of litigation and legal procedure. Her expertise, background, professionalism and integrity make her a valuable ally in litigation."

Ms. Maggie Lourdes, Esq. (Law Offices of Margaret A. Lourdes / Plymouth, MI)

"Our case still ranks up as one of my most dramatic cases in my 15 years of practice and I could not have prevailed for my client without you."

James E. Zwaanstra, Attorney (Portland, OR)

"Ms. Joseph is engaging, thorough and accurate. She was a valuable asset in the investigation of a key document in a medical record case of mine."

Matthew McColl, Attorney (Boise, ID)

"Ms. Joseph was a guest speaker for the Pacific Northwest Paralegal Association. Her substantive seminars about forensic handwriting and document investigation were very informative and demonstrated her expertise in the field. Her involvement in professional associations confirms her commitment to professional development and excellence."

Sandra Hatch, Senior Litigation Paralegal (National Association of Legal Assistants / Oregon)

"Ms. Joseph was a valuable asset for a criminal case that required verification of signatures. As a criminal investigator, I found working with Ms. Joseph to be professional and she was extremely tempered for working with inmates. She was precise, well ordered, and assisted my investigation efforts for a positive outcome in a complicated fraud case. Highly recommended."
